

Friday, December 11th
10:30am

Nabil Jacobo: Airplane: Humans can fly, and in a safe way

It is impossible for the news, newspapers and other social media not to talk about a plane accident when it occurs, causing fear in many people. However, the thousands of airplanes that land safely per day are not taken into account, generating the doubt of whether it is really safe to travel through the air in an artifact created for this purpose.

To get rid of that fear, this thesis will show that traveling by plane is safe and that you have to trust those who handle it, because they are prepared for everything.

In the body of the thesis there is a semiotic and linguistic analysis of a brief documentary about an emergency landing in the Hudson River, trying to show that even in the worst cases you can survive. Also, some surveys were carried out in order to know the opinions of other people and refute some opinions with arguments.

In conclusion, I hope to be able to share my knowledge on the topic and transmit that the plane is the safest transport and will continue being.